September 15, 2022 @ 4 pm – 6 pm (Pacific Time)
Zoom Online Meeting, Presented by Trix Bruce (Deaf)

Focus on Handshapes: Really? Is that what I signed? Oops!

The handshape is probably the most apparent parameter of ASL. Linguists have identified a large number of discrete handshapes and some signs that use the same handshape and may look similar, but have different meanings. Trix will demonstrate several categories of signs with various degrees of similarity. She will also show the proper application of palm orientation, location, movement and non-manual signals for signs with various handshapes.

Educational Objectives:

Workshop will teach techniques for:

- Recognizing the differences between two or more signs that look similar
- Identifying and analyzing the influence of various sign parameters on meaning
- Demonstrating effective use of linguistically applicable handshapes

My workshops benefit participants at all levels. Countless advanced interpreters have let me know that they enjoyed learning updated/new signs that they haven't seen before, such as regional accents. They also loved it when I explained how to sign messages into ASL, rather than just signing in English word by word. Interpreters appreciate that my workshops are excellent for review as well as for discovering new things that apply within the professional work environment. Students also mentioned that my workshops helped them to understand how to approach their own projects, research, and practice more effectively.
